

AMERICAN SOLDIERS HELD PRISONERS BY THE GERMANS

On the Western European front.
 • American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • The American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

• American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

On the Western European front.
 • American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • The American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

• American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

On the Western European front.
 • American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • The American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

• American, and his comrades, are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.
 • American soldiers are prisoners.

Five men of Pershing's army are being exhibited in Germany. They were captured in a trench raid, and while their names could not be cabled it is likely the publication of this picture will enable friends to identify them. It is a reproduction of a page of Welt im Bild, a German propaganda organ. In the bottom cut notice the defiant manner in which they face their sneering captors.

Photo copyright Underwood & Underwood.

An unusual snapshot taken in the heat of battle. A French soldier throwing a hand grenade from the trenches.

Copyright by Kadel & Herbert.

It looks like a masquerade costume and a crazy one at that, but in reality it is the official camouflage get up of the U. S. A., designed to hide the wearer from the enemy while climbing trees.

Committee on Public Information.

Most of this group of American engineers threw down their picks and shovels and hoes and seized rifles when the Germans attacked the British in overwhelming force at Cambrai. They have all been especially mentioned for meritorious service.

The Italian army is still a capable fighting organization as witness this group of Austrians captured by Gen. Diaz's soldiers in a counter attack along the Piave River.

Photo Italian Official, from Central News.